

Behavioral Sleep Medicine Seminar Series 2024 - 2025

CME provided by the University of Arizona College of Medicine – Tucson

#BSMinar

“Unpacking the Intersection of Discrimination, Parenting, and Family Health Disparities”

Violeta J Rodriguez, MEd, PhD

Assistant Professor, Psychology Clinical Community Division

Director, Health Equity and Action Lab

University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign

As a result of this presentation, participants will:

1. Understand the Interplay Between Discrimination and Parenting: Explore how experiences of discrimination influence parenting practices and subsequently affect child sleep and mental health, using data from a nationwide study
2. Analyze Network Models in Parenting Research: Examine the use of Bayesian network models to understand the complex relationships between stigma, parenting strategies, and health outcomes among transgender and gender-diverse parents.
3. Learn About the Development and Validation of Inclusive Parenting Scales: Learn about the processes and methodologies involved in developing and validating culturally sensitive and inclusive parenting scales for LGBTQIA+ parents from diverse backgrounds.
